Declaration of Health Conformity

DMA hereby declares that the said materials comply with current legislation for materials and articles intended for contact with food.

According to article No 3 of EU Regulation No 1935/2004 all materials and articles, including active and intelligent materials and articles, must be manufactured in accordance with good manufacturing practice so that, under normal or foreseeable conditions of use, they do not transfer their constituents to food in quantities which can

- Pose a hazard to human health
- Cause an unacceptable change in the food composition
- Cause an deterioration in the organoleptic properties

This stainless steel products includes:

Austenitic, duplex or ferritic stainless steel produced in accordance with EN 10088-1 or equivalent.

DMA assures that all stainless steel are handled properly to ensure that its basic properties are maintained.
